Ambulatory Care Residency (PGY-2)

Mission:

The purpose of the Ambulatory Care (PGY-2) residency at the University of Florida College of Pharmacy/University of Florida Health is to prepare its graduates to assume positions as competent and compassionate ambulatory care practitioners or entry-level clinical faculty positions with an ambulatory care focus.

Program:

This PGY-2 program in ambulatory care provides an in-depth experience in family medicine and academia. Residents will gain experience in providing disease management for diabetes, hypertension, hyperlipidemia, anticoagulation, and smoking cessation at the UF Health Family Medicine Clinic at Old Town. The residency offers a unique teaching certificate program which offers experiences both in small group instruction and didactic lectures in the University of Florida College of Pharmacy curriculum. Additional rotation opportunities include longitudinal staffing at the UF Health Med Plaza Pharmacy, Medication Therapy Management, Internal Medicine, Patient Safety, and Pharmacogenomics. The resident is expected to complete an IRB-approved research project of publishable quality and present results at local, regional, or state pharmacy meetings. This program is currently in pre-candidate status with the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists.
